Required Attire

During the first two years of medical school, students spend most of their time in lectures, laboratories, or other activities that do not involve contact with patients. At such times, students are expected to dress comfortably, but in such a way that does not detract from attentiveness and learning. When patient contact is part of the curriculum, either through direct contact or with patients being brought to a lecture room, students are expected to make a professional appearance and to wear the white clinic jacket with school logo and the required student I.D. Course directors should be consulted about proper attire in specific circumstances.

In the clinical years (junior and senior), students are expected to dress as health care professionals and to wear both the white jacket with school logo and the required student I.D. Again, clerkship directors or supervisors of electives/selectives should be consulted if there is a question about appropriate attire.
